

Alison was please as she awarded a plaque to that actress.
Barbara said that she had skated as far as the small plaza.
Julia placed that canary in a brass cage beneath the stage.
Xavier was eager to haul away today the large bag of beans.
Beverly was able to buy about fifty of the big borax boxes.
Ben believed he would be unable to squeeze the rubber bulb.
Jack remembered to bring those bats and balls for the boys.
Phoebe had boiled the beets for her brother in a blue bowl.
Blanche quickly called her doctor for the seasick children.
Grace could have served cocoa and coffee with spiced cakes.
Cecelia just decided to clean all six blazers in the chest.
My city cousins had picked a cloudy day to hold the picnic.
Davida decided to send some sandwiches to the old soldiers.
Donald just acquired a dozen red diaries for sixty dollars.
Delbert was delighted to plow the field and plant radishes.
Dwight was seldom shocked when he adjusted the radio dials.