

We have delivered the prized emeralds to an expert jeweler. Eve inquired when to reserve a seat on the evening express. Stephen had just received sixteen steel engines by freight. Ethel eagerly washed out several green smudges on her desk. Frank finished packing four boxes of figs before nightfall. Few expected my office furniture to arrive by fast freight. Alfred forgot to fill fifteen jars of fudge for the farmer. Quincy frequently refused to fix five of our freezers free. Just bring large pads for the big quiz to be given tonight. Georgia gave all girls huge books on algebra and geography. Gregory got groggy walking through the quagmire in the fog. Mignon quickly exchanged that gold ring she got last night. Vaughan quickly sheared eight inches off these high hedges. The pharmacist hired a shipping clerk to help him at night. Wright just exchanged a box of hangers for thirty shingles. The foghorns help a ship reach the lighthouse on hazy days.