

This humidity is particularly suited for cultivating fruit. Julius urged us to study the rulings issued by our umpires. Kurt had bought the quetzal because of its unusual plumage. Paul supplies our builder with the usual plumbing fixtures. Vivian puzzled the visitors with the preview of that movie. These divers arrived in the village by seven every morning. Vera quivered as six heavy vans moved into the vacant cave. Kevin just invited relatives to view a villa in the valley. We wondered why the welder used both tweezers and a wrench. Whitney squawked when the waves swept away his wrist watch. Jack wanted to put two more bowls of flowers in this wagon. Winthrop knows that waxweed will grow well in that weather. Dixie expected excitement about six extra textile exhibits. Xavier anxiously coaxed these experts to fix his xylophone. Rex was quizzed about luxury taxes on the black onyx boxes. Max next explained the juxtaposition of two large galaxies.